

I do not think the FCC should mandate that copyright protection be implemented on HDTV broadcasts and HDTV equipment. This would interfere with "time-shifting" of programming using VCRs or personal video recorders which would affect how a large number of people view television broadcasts.